

Dear Educators:

This letter serves as notification that Booksource Classroom and all Booksource collections and support materials included in our 2022 - 2023 catalogs, on www.booksource.com, and provided on custom price quotes are sole source.

Our expertly curated book collections and Instructional Resources leveraging our exclusive metadata are only available through Booksource, and each is identified by a unique product code. They are proprietary offerings protected by copyright and owned or controlled by Booksource or the party credited as the provider of the content.

For more than 30 years, we have collected proprietary metadata on thousands of book titles. This title data, consistently updated by book experts, powers our internal database, and allows each custom collection to be built to specific educator needs. The unique title insights are proprietary as are the resulting book collections and custom collections. Any book list generated from Booksource is curated accessing the database and is a proprietary, value added service included with purchase from Booksource. Sharing Booksource generated book lists to anyone, due to their proprietary content, is prohibited.

Booksource Classroom is also proprietary material only available from Booksource and is protected by copyright, and owned or controlled by Booksource, the respective authors, publishers or the party credited as the provider of the Content.

We welcome the opportunity to support your literacy efforts and feel confident that our selection of titles will meet your curriculum needs.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Mark Rygelski".

Mark Rygelski
CEO, Booksource